

ABSTRACT

Precise positioning of components on support structures is 5 achieved through modifications of properties of the support structure. Improved optoelectronic devices and optoelectronic packages are presented. In addition, improved methods and apparatus are presented for applications such as fabrication, repair, and alignment optimization of 10 optoelectronic packages and optical devices.